YISE Nursery three-year-old class delivers Mishloach Manot to seniors at the Hebrew Home

Just before Purim Morah Helen's three year old class delivered the Mishloach Manot that every child at YISE Nursery had lovingly packed for the seniors.

"The seniors at the home were delighted by the children who were polite, entertaining and absolutely wonderful," said a staff member at the Home.

"The idea is to give our children a hands on chesed experience," said Morah Helen Ritman. They sang their beautiful Purim songs, were encouraged to sit and talk to the seniors, and then gave out the packages."

"Our goal is to show our young children that elderly people are the same as all of us and that they should be treated with respect and dignity," said Morah Helen.

YISE Nursery teachers are acting troupe in spare time

... but they don't have any spare time because they are so busy teaching at YISE Nursery!

Nevertheless, on Shushan Purim the well seasoned troupe put on their annual Purim shpiel for the children.

The show was a resounding success with Haman (Morah Helen) exhibiting remarkable temper tantrums and demands for candy at his party. King Achashvayrosh (Morah Anna) was a strong advocate for himself but showed good character development and growth once he understood that he had been swindled by his trusted advisor, Haman. Mordechai (Morah Debby) was a sympathetic character who exhibited all the qualities of a good Jew. Vashti (Morah Leah) made a very brief appearance at the beginning of the show but left to join a traveling music troupe. Sidekicks Bigtan and Teresh were well played by Morot Beth and Stephanie, and the guards escorting all the evil doers out of the palace were polished in their performance.

It was Queen Esther, however, who stole the show. New on the acting troupe, Morah Peryl Bogart (a possible relation of Humphrey?), was a stunning yet cunning Queen Esther.

Overall the show gets a five star rating. A MUST see next year!

NEW TWOs make hamantashen for Purim

Every class at YISE Nursery integrates the Yom Tovim with the lesson plans of an early childhood education. Kneading and shaping hamantashen exercises muscles in little hands, develops fine motor skills and allows for creative expression in the forming of the delicious treat. Of course, eating them requires the exercise of the taste buds - an essential component to the whole Purim experience!

Rabbi Rosenbaum puts up a new mezuzah

Now that the school has a brand new fire safety door a new mezuzah was needed. Rabbi Rosenbaum taught the children that in a building that is not your home you do not make a brocha while putting up the mezuzah.
